Strata™ Releases Upgrade of the Strata CX Suite

New version includes revolutionary integration with Adobe™ Photoshop® CS3 Extended

St. George, Utah, January 22, 2008 — Strata, the company adding the power of 3D to the designer's toolset, released today a new version of the Strata CX Suite. With version 1.5 designers will be able to incorporate 3D with Adobe Photoshop CS3 Extended like never before. This revolutionary fusion of the Strata CX Suite (which includes Strata 3D CX, Strata Foto 3D, and Strata Live 3D) with Photoshop CS3 means users can take a massive step forward in the way they design rich content.

The Strata CX Suite includes:

Strata 3D CX allows users to model, render and animate 3D content. Users can also match 3D into a Photoshop document, edit 3D models, render to layers in a Photoshop document, and much more.

Strata Foto 3D lets users capture existing real world items as 3D models by using a digital camera. Users can use Photoshop to load a series of masked pictures to Foto 3D and return a real-time 3D object to a 3D layer in Photoshop® CS3 Extended Strata Live 3D gives you the power to put your work into real-time 3D to enhance websites, PowerPoint presentations and PDF documents.

“We're happy to see support for 3D workflows in Photoshop CS3 Extended from valued ecosystem partners like Strata,” said Kevin Connor, Senior Director of Product Management, Professional Digital Imaging, Adobe. “It means creatives can take full advantage of the power of the Photoshop image editing toolset and paint engine for editing 3D and motion based content.”

“The fusion of Strata's CX Suite to Photoshop CS3 will spark a creative explosion,” states Ken Bringhurst, Strata's president. “This upgrade reinforces Strata's position as the best 3D solution for designers and illustrators.”
